ABOUT THE THEME

GSOLE invites educators, researchers, administrators, tutors, and students to consider how digital learning environments can do more than provide access: they can open doors to meaningful participation, connection, and opportunity.

“Beyond Engagement” challenges us to look past traditional evidence of engagement—screen time, course completion, forum posts, drafts—toward learning experiences that support student well-being and care, cultivate belonging, increase learner agency and critical thinking, and promote a shared purpose. The Community of Inquiry framework (social, cognitive, and teaching presence) offers a generative lens, and we invite work that confronts the structural inequities that limit engagement before it begins.

“When it comes to doing online conferences, GSOLE has it figured out.”

— GSOLE member, 2026 conference

TOPICS OF INTEREST

- Beyond Engagement in Online Learning and Pedagogy — well-being, care, agency, and critical thinking as goals of online writing instruction and tutoring
- Online Literacy Community Design — cultivating belonging, motivation, and connection in online, hybrid, and digitally enhanced courses
- Emerging Technologies & AI Literacy — how generative AI and other tools open or close doors to community and social presence
- Inclusive, Diverse, Equitable, and Accessible (IDEA) Communities — structural inequities, universal design, and linguistic and cultural diversity
- The Future of Writing Centers & Writing Programs — fully online institutions, mentoring, and measuring belonging beyond session counts
- Adjunct, Part-Time, and Contingent Community — inclusion and institutional investment in contingent faculty, tutors, and staff
- (Re)Building Professional Communities — life after the CCCC de-chartering, new partnerships, and preparing faculty to teach online

This list is not exhaustive. GSOLE wants to hear all voices.

PRESENTATION FORMATS

SYNCHRONOUS

Present live via Zoom

- Panels — 40 min, 3–5 presenters
- Individual Papers — 15 min, clustered on panels of 2–3
- Community Conversations — 40-min roundtables that engage attendees as participants
- OWI CCCC Proposals — proposals already accepted by CCCC receive priority

ON-DEMAND

Pre-recorded, 5–10 min max

- Individual/Panel Presentations — 5–10 min, 1–3 presenters
- Praxis Post(er)s — 3–5 min videos demonstrating a teaching or tutoring practice
- OLI Certification ePortfolio Tours — 5–10 min tours from program completers

SUBMISSION AT A GLANCE

- ✓ Anonymous review: omit names and institutional affiliations from the abstract; use descriptors such as “large two-year college” or “adjunct faculty member.”
- ✓ Abstract limit: 2,800 characters (about 400 words).
- ✓ Maximum two proposals per person, in different presentation formats.
- ✓ Select up to two topics from the list and indicate your literacy-education context (K-12, two-year college, university, tutoring center, OLI outside the US, etc.).
- ✓ Generative AI may be used to develop proposals; you remain responsible for accuracy, and the final submission must reflect your own ideas and work.
- ✓ Proposals are scored on Relevance, Contribution, and Focus. Reviewers value diverse cited voices and a clear, feasible presentation plan.

Submit your proposal by October 19, 2026

Scan the code or visit the proposal form online. As an international organization, we do our best to accommodate reasonable presentation times for presenters worldwide.
